-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Drawings

1. The drawings are objected to because Figs. 1-3 do not label for elements 105-113.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as “amended.” If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either “Replacement Sheet” or “New Sheet” pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 2614

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by DiCamillo et al.

(U.S. Patent Application Publication No. 2002/0061100).

Regarding claim 1, DiCamillo et al. teach a method for transmitting information between two or more points, comprising:

receiving a virtual number at a first intermediate point (Fig. 1, 18) from at least one originating point (Fig. 1, 16);

converting the virtual number into at least one physical number (page 3, paragraphs [0029] - [0031]);

determining a second intermediate point based on the at least one physical number (paragraph [0034]); determining at least one destination point based on the at least one physical number (paragraph [0034]); and transmitting information between the at least one originating point and the at least one destination point (paragraph [0035]).

Regarding claim 2, DiCamillo et al. further teach the method wherein the receiving comprises establishing a communication path between the first intermediate point and the at least one originating point (Fig. 1, 20).

Regarding claim 3, DiCamillo et al. inherently teach the method wherein the converting comprises comparing the virtual number to a routing table because the call is routed from caller to called party.

Regarding claim 4, DiCamillo et al. further teach the method wherein the determining a second intermediate point comprises establishing a communication path between the first intermediate point and the second intermediate point (Fig. 1, 36).

Regarding claim 5, DiCamillo et al. further teach the method wherein the determining at least one destination point comprises establishing a communication path between the at least one destination point and the second intermediate point (Fig. 1, 48).

Regarding claim 6, DiCamillo et al. teach an apparatus for transmitting information between at least two points, comprising:

- a first intermediate point (Fig. 1, 18) operatively connected to at least one originating point (Fig. 1, 16) to receive a virtual number, wherein the virtual number is converted into at least one physical number (page 3, paragraphs [0029] - [0031]);

- a second intermediate point (Fig. 1, 29) capable of communicating with a the first intermediate point (Fig. 1, 18) over a computer network (Fig. 1, 30);

- at least one destination point (Fig. 1, 46) operatively connected to the second intermediate point 29, wherein the second intermediate point is determined based on its proximity to the at least one destination point (Fig. 1, 42).

Regarding claim 7, DiCamillo et al. further teach the apparatus wherein the virtual number comprises an area code, wherein the area code is within a local calling area of the at least one originating point (paragraph [0024]).

Art Unit: 2614

Regarding claim 8, DiCamillo et al. further teach the apparatus wherein information is transmitted over the computer network based on packets (paragraph [0035]).

Regarding claim 9, DiCamillo et al. further teach the apparatus wherein information is transmitted to and from the originating and destination points based on analog signals (paragraph [0024]).

Regarding claim 10, DiCamillo et al. further teach the apparatus wherein the first and second intermediate points are capable of analog to digital conversion and digital to analog conversion (paragraph [0024]).

Regarding claim 11, DiCamillo et al. further teach the apparatus wherein the first and second intermediate points comprise servers (Fig. 1, 22 & 28).

Regarding claim 12, DiCamillo et al. further teach the apparatus wherein the at least one originating point and the at least one destination point comprise telephones (Fig. 1, 12 & 42).

Regarding claim 13, DiCamillo et al. inherently teach the apparatus wherein the virtual number is converted into at least one physical number based on a routing table because the call is routed from caller to called party.
